Quality Based Building Systems Commissioning & Operations

In support of Eco Month, we invite you to join us for a presentation by Jim Bochat of Commissioning Concepts.

Jim will explain quality based commissioning, quality based operations, what architects can do to get high quality commissioning on their projects, the most important aspects of the design and construction process that lead to quality systems, as well as continuous quality operations .

The presentation reveals that our industries methods of designing and constructing facilities has roadblocks built into the process that prevents getting high quality operations from our building systems. These roadblocks are social or processed based rather than technical and the only professionals capable of changing these processes are the building owners or his architect.

Attendees will receive
1 AIA SD/HSW
learning unit for attending

Please RSVP to Diana
